Session Learning Outcomes

By the end of this session, the student should be able to:

- Recognise natural acceptance as innate, invariant and universal.
- Distinguish natural acceptance from liking, acceptance and forced acceptance.
- Check, on the basis of natural acceptance, whether relationship or opposition is naturally acceptable.

How to Engage with this Session (The Process)

- Whatever is said is a proposal — do not assume it to be true or false.
- Verify it on your own right, on the basis of your natural acceptance.
- It is a dialogue: first with the teacher, then within your own self — between what you are and what you really want to be.

Part A — Key Ideas (Recap)

- Natural acceptance is what I accept innately — it is innate, invariant, uncorrupted by pre-conditioning, definite and universal.
- It must be distinguished from liking/appeal, which varies from person to person.
- Natural acceptance has to do with my relationship to a reality and my role/purpose; the details of how to fulfil it may vary.
- We can check only the feeling part by our natural acceptance; expression has creativity/variation.
- Living on the basis of natural acceptance is self-organised; assuming without verifying is being programmed by others.

Note on this worksheet

The PS2 deck was not among the uploaded files. This worksheet fills the standard Module-1 PS2 slot ("Exploring our Natural Acceptance") using the natural-acceptance material present in the Lecture 3 deck. Please verify it against your own PS2 presentation.

Part B — In-Class Activity

Activity 1 — The Namaste Check

For each feeling behind the same Namaste, mark whether it is naturally acceptable and what it leads to within you.

Feeling behind the gesture	Naturally acceptable? (Yes/No)	Leads to (harmony/happiness or disharmony/unhappiness)
Feeling of relationship / respect	Yes	Harmony / Happiness
Feeling of opposition / disrespect	No	Disharmony / Unhappiness

Activity 2 — Relationship or Opposition?

Check within yourself: is your natural acceptance to live in relationship (harmony) with others, or in opposition? Do you feel happy living in opposition?

Living in relationship is naturally acceptable. Living in opposition causes internal friction, stress, and unhappiness. Fostering mutual trust and cooperation aligns with natural human tendencies.

Activity 3 — Three Kinds of Acceptance

Give one example of each from your own life.

Type	Meaning	My example
Natural acceptance	Innate, invariant, universal	Wanting to live in trust and respect with family.
Acceptance	What I assume in a situation	Assuming that working long hours without rest is necessary for success.
Forced acceptance	What I am forced to abide by	Following speed limits solely to avoid traffic fines.

Activity 4 — Natural Acceptance vs Liking

Write what you LIKE and the deeper thing you NATURALLY ACCEPT.

Example	I like…	I naturally accept…
Food (tasty vs nurturing)	Highly seasoned, tasty junk food	Nutritious food that supports physical health

Example	I like…	I naturally accept…
Studying (to understand vs to cram for exam)	Cramming quickly to pass exams	Gaining deep understanding and clarity

Part C — Long-Answer Questions

Q1. What is natural acceptance, and how is it distinguished from liking or appeal? Give an example.

Natural Acceptance: An innate, unchanging, universal faculty within the Self that recognizes what aligns with basic human order and harmony.

Distinction from Liking: Liking relies on sensory appeal, conditioning, or temporary moods, varying across individuals and time. Natural acceptance remains constant across all individuals.

Example: A person may like eating sugary desserts based on taste (sensation), but naturally accepts consuming balanced food that maintains bodily health.

Q2. Using the Namaste example, explain how the same expression can be naturally acceptable or not, and what can and cannot be checked by natural acceptance.

Namaste Example: The physical movement (joining hands) is an external action. If performed with genuine respect, it reflects inner harmony and is naturally acceptable. If performed with underlying disrespect or sarcasm, it causes internal disharmony.

What CAN be checked: The underlying feeling and intention in the Self (e.g., respect vs. disrespect).

What CANNOT be checked: The specific external gesture or cultural form (e.g., shaking hands vs. bowing), which varies by culture and context.

Q3. Distinguish between natural acceptance, acceptance and forced acceptance.

Natural Acceptance: Unconditioned, innate awareness of harmony that yields genuine happiness and self-organization.

Acceptance: Assumptions, habits, or social norms adopted through pre-conditioning without personal verification.

Forced Acceptance: Conformity driven by external pressure, fear, or laws despite internal reluctance, producing disharmony and stress.
